2 Organic Certification Sample Scope of Work

Organic Certification Consultant¹ (estimated consultant fees, XOF 2-4M per certified supply)

Overview

In line with promoting sustainable agriculture and improving access of farmers/collectors to targeted markets organic certification is sometimes pursued requiring the services of experts and certification bodies.

Scope of work

It is expected that the service provider will facilitate all processes leading to a successful acquisition of organic certificate by addressing the following specific terms of reference:

- Ensure capacity building of stakeholders involved in the selected value chain
- Facilitate the engagement of a specified certification body²
- Facilitate all other processes deemed necessary for a successful acquisition of organic certification

The following outlines the certification process³:

NO	Specific Activities
1	Initial Assessment of the organic area and the project organization
2	Sensitization of communities leaders and relevant stakeholders
3	Train support staff and group leaders i.e. 'Certification Team' (organic standards & ICS)
4	Groups formation, dynamics, and registration
5	Training of farmer groups (2 groups /day)
6	Application to certification body
7	Mapping and risk assessment of farms
8	Lead the Certification Team to develop ICS manual & templates (Procedures & records)
9	Development of the supply chain documents (Traceability & transparency)
10	Completion of Audit Request (OP's, Contracts, Maps, Collection area and product specifications)

² You will determine the certification body based on your export market (EU versus US, etc.). Assuming you will stick with EU, you will likely pursue Organic Farming Europe certification. For US, you would likely pursue USDA organic certification. You can use any control body that is approved by the certification body to certify compliance in that specific certification you are pursuing. Example of control bodies are Ecocert and bioagricert. More information on control bodies for EU markets here. I have also added guidelines as additional documents in this annex

³³ The first step will be to get the supply certified organic. Then, once supply is certified organic, Serious Shea should hire a consultant to certify itself as a handler/operator of organic product.

The DST will need to be fully operational, the collection and processing facilities established, and then Serious Shea can be certified organic as a handler/operator. The process will involve ensuring that the processing facilities and methods are in compliance with the certification body's guidelines. I have added a guideline to this annex as well for further information.

11	Internal inspection & Corrective Action
12	External inspection including picking of samples for residue analysis
13	Corrective measures if any
14	Award of Certificate

Qualifications

- Master's degree in Agricultural Economics, Agribusiness Management, Quality Management, or any other equivalent degree;
- Good knowledge of quality control concepts, tools and methods;
- Experience designing and implementing an internal control system for Organic Farming Europe or USDA organic certification for supply chains in emerging markets;
- Experience in shea or other similar agricultural product preferred;
- Proven experience in conducting similar missions, preferably in Burkina Faso;
- Excellent organizational, planning and communication skills;
- Strong analytical skills;
- Proven ability to work in a team and to communicate across cultures;
- Fluency in French required, fluency in English preferred.

Deliverables

The following deliverables are expected:

- Reports of all activities implemented
- Report on internal control system (ICS manual)
- A final report detailing the entire certification process, potential challenges and proposed measures to address them

3 Monitoring Requirements

3.1 Quality Standards

Serious Shea will need to define the quality standards to which it intends to hold its suppliers, depending on how stringent the company wishes to be. TechnoServe recommends⁴:

- Kernel
 - Acidity level 0.02 maximum
 - Impurities level 0.05%
 - Brown nuts/kernels
 - Clean nuts without impurities
 - Moisture content - less than 6%
 - FFA (Free Fatty Acids) less than 5%
 - Uninfected nuts/kernels
- Butter
 - Creamy to yellow in colour
 - FFA (Free Fatty Acids) level should be less than 5%
 - Low moisture content – less than 6%
 - Peroxide Value less than 2mg/kg

3.2 Standard Operating Procedures (SOP)

Summary

- Women trained on nut collection, including quality control- use existing Global Shea Alliance training manuals for butter and nut
- Animatrices conduct control visits prior to buying days to control quality parameters, ensure practice adoption and refresh training as needed
- Measure of moisture level for every bag by Union Agent or Collection Center Buying Agent using a “Aquaboy” sensor
- Rejection of all bags above 6% moisture level (note, required level may vary according to buying period, with higher moisture levels earlier in the season while it is still raining, some buyers currently are accepting up to 10% early in the season – SS needs to define their acceptable thresholds)
- Rejection of all bags with FFA above 5%
- Rejection of bags with physical impurities, such as spoilage, discoloration, infestation, etc.
- Despite the common practice of using PP (polypropylene) bags, they trap humidity and can lead to spoilage. Jute bags are more expensive and supply is limited, but they are better for quality. (Most jute bags are recycled because there are no local producers)

Detail

Activities correspond to the LOE estimations for Union Agents and Animatrices in the Staffing section above.

⁴These recommendations are based on generally accepted shea quality criteria for EU and US market and also align with our experience supporting shea export from Ghana to these markets. While national guidelines may vary, these align with Ghana Standards Authority as well. Serious Shea may consider different variations in these criteria based on their end market. Some markets may have different preferences or limits on FFA for example. Over time, if Serious Shea is able to source sufficient volume at higher quality levels, you may also choose to increase your quality expectations across the board. You should also conduct a cost benefit analysis for different quality levels, to allow you to balance this with any price premiums you choose to offer for quality.
